Buffalo is part of the Little IV in the MAC East and has a slight chance of finishing #3 in the East. This is probably the best team the Bulls have had since joining Div 1A ball. Some of their advantages this year are they have 15 returning starters and just 14 lettermen lost and their defense is in the upper half in the MAC. They also have a schedule where they get winnable games vs Akron, Ohio and E Michigan, all at home. However, Buffalo has one of the worst offense and special teams in the league. The question here is, will they have enough wins to keep the coaching staff intact.
