It seemed like a great year for Connecticut last season as they finished 8-4, including a bowl destruction of Toledo, 39-10. They actually finished 5th in the league last year at just 3-3 as four teams tied for the top spot at 4-2. UC is not as strong as last year's version and definitely less experienced. This year they must replace 22 senior lettermen and have just five seniors in the 2 deep. The biggest question marks are along the OL which must replace four starters and who will take over at QB replacing veteran starter Dan Orlovsky. UC gets four home games in Big East play and have a soft non-conf slate. Once again, they could easily achieve a winning record but this does look like a rebuilding year for Randy Edsall's squad. The Big East got a lot tougher this season with the addition of a team like Louisville.
