Not only does OSU have to replace its head coach, but Mike Gundy is turning them from a run based attack to more of a pass offense, which is usually a slow process. The Cowboys are in a bit of a rebuilding mode with just 13 returning starters and last year were actually outgained by 38.6 ypg in Big 12 play. They also benefited from +16 in turnovers. Throw in the fact that the top 4 teams in the Big 12 South are not just Top 25 foes, but all 4 are capable to contend for National Title honors and they are 5th in a very tough division. Even with a possible great start, we don't think the Cowboys can top last year's 7 win total and may need a win in Waco, in the season finale, just to get to the post season.
