The Aztecs were extremely beat up along the OL last year, having to play numerous frosh, and will probably have one of the most improved offenses in the entire NCAA. Their defense, which has had 7 starters returning in each of the last two years, has just 4 back this year. If they can play close to the performance of the Darkside D the last two years, this Aztec team is a clear-cut contender for the MWC Title. Despite their injury-plagued 2004 season (2-5 in MWC), they were only outgained by 16.5 ypg, which was actually the 4th best mark in the conference! We think they will have a possible Top 10 offense. Despite just having 12 starters back, which is the 3rd lowest in the league, it should be a successful season and hopefully the first bowl game in the Tom Craft era.
