Of the 3 CUSA teams in a rebuilding mode this year, all three reside in the East but UCF is probably in the best situation, although not facing the best schedule. It is now their 2nd year in George O'Leary's system and new head coaches generally fare much better the second year once they are accustomed to the team and the team has learned the new systems on both offense and defense. They should remain healthier than the last two years when the Golden Knights were injury-plagued. There are very few soft touches on the UCF schedule and they do have to travel to E Carolina but the Knights go from a winless season to avoiding the cellar.
