Wyoming has 17 returning starters which ties them for most in the conference. Offensively if they get Joseph Harris back and healthy, in addition to super QB Bramlet, some fine receivers and a top-notch O-line, the offense should top the 26.5 ppg they produced last season. A couple of things disturb us about last season's bowl-winning year. First, Wyoming did not defeat a IA team with a winning record in the regular season as this year's MWC figures to have multiple teams with winning records. Another troubling fact is they were outgained by 54.6 ypg in MWC play last year, which was actually the worst mark in the conference. As we state many times, ANY of the top 8 teams can actually win the MWC, and Wyoming is one of them.
